The pair of bronchos that Mrs. Yellett was driving humped their backs like cats as they climbed the steep mountain road. With her driving was an exact science. It was a treat to see her handle the ribbons. Mary asked some trilling question about the children, and it elicited the information that one of the girls was named "Cacta." "Yes," she said, "I like new names for children, not old ones that is all fazzled out an' folks has suffered an' died to it. It seems to start 'em fair, like playin' cards with a new deck. Cacta's my oldest daughter, an' I named her after the flowers that blooms all over the desert spiky of everything—heat, cold an' rain an' alkali dust—the cactus blooms right through it all. Even its own thorns don't seem to fret it none. I called her plain Cactus till she was three, an' along came a sharp study'n' the flowers an' weeds out here, an' he 'lowed that Cactus was a boy's name an' Cacta was for girls—called it a feemlin' turnation or somethin' like that—so we changed it. My second daughter ain't got quite so much of a name. She's called Clematis. That holds its own out here pretty well, long by the willows on the creek. Paw 'lowed he was terrible afraid that I'd name the youngest girl Sagebrush, so he spoke to call her Leslie Viola, an' I give 'em. The boys is all plain named—Ben, Jack an' Nel. Paw wouldn't hear of a fancy brand bein' run on to 'em."

The temperature fell perceptibly as they climbed the heights, and the air had the heady quality of wine. It was awesome, this entering into the great company of the mountains. Presently Mary caught the glimmer—of something white against the dark background of the hills. It gleamed like a snow bank, though they were far below the snow line on the mountain side they were climbing.

"Well, here be camp," announced Mrs. Yellett. What Mary had taken for a bank of snow was a huge canvas covered wagon. Several dogs ran down to greet the buckboard, barking a welcome. In the background was a shadowy group, huge of stature, making its way down the mountain path. "And here's all the children come to meet teacher." Mrs. Yellett's tone was tenderly maternal, as if it was something of a feat for the children to walk down the mountain path to meet their teacher. But Mary, straining her eyes to catch a glimpse of her little pupils, could discover nothing but a group of persons that seemed to be the survivors of some titanic race. Not one among them but seemed to have reached the high water mark of six feet. Was it an optical illusion, a hallucination born of the wonderful starlight, or were they as huge as they seemed? The young men looked giants, the girls as if they had wandered out of the first chapters of Genesis. Their mother introduced them. They all had huge, warm, perspiring hands, with grips like bears. Mary looked about for a house into which she could escape to gather her scattered faculties, but the starlight, yellow and luminous, revealed none. There was the huge covered wagon that she had taken for a snow bank, there was a small tent, there were two light wagons, there were dogs lumbering, but there was no sign of a house.

"What do you think of it?" inquired Mrs. Yellett smilingly, anticipating a favorable answer.

"It's almost too beautiful to leave," Mary innocently supposed that Mrs. Yellett referred to the starlit landscape. "But I'm so tired, Mrs. Yellett, and so glad to get to a real home at last, that I'm going to ask if you will not show me the way to the house so that I may go to bed right away."

This apparently reasonable request was greeted by a fine chorus of titanic laughter from Mrs. Yellett's pupils. Mrs. Yellett waved her hand over the surrounding landscape in comprehensive gesture.

"Ain't all this large enough for you?" she asked gayly.

"You mean the mountains? They're wonderful. But—I really think I'd like to go in the house."

"I shore hope you ain't figgerin' on goin' into no house, 'cause there ain't no house to go into." She laughed merrily, as if the idea of such an effete luxury as a house were amusing. "This yere family ain't ever had a house; it camps."

Mary gasped. The real meaning of words no longer had the power of making an impression on her. If Mrs. Yellett had announced that "there means the habit of sleeping in the wagon" it would not have surprised her.

"If you are tired an' want to go to bed you can shuck off an' be down any time. Ben, Jack, Ned, go an' get with paw in the tent while the gawm gets ready for bed. Cacta an' Clem, you help me with them quilts."

Mary stood helpless in the wilderness while quilts and pillows were fetched somewhere from the adjacent security, and Mrs. Yellett asked her, with the gravity of a Pullman porter interrogating a passenger as to the location of head and foot, if she liked to sleep "light or dark." She chose "dark" at random, hating to display her ignorance of the alternatives, with the happy result that her bed was made up in a leeward of the great sheep wagon in a nice little corner of the state of Wyoming. Mary was grateful that she had chosen dark.

CHAPTER IX.

he had turned rustler and moved into the "bad man's country," one of those remote mountain fastnesses that abound in Wyoming and furnish a natural protection to the fugitive from justice. Judith took the left fork of the road even as Peter Hamilton had chosen the right the day she had watched him gallop toward Kitty Colebrooke with never a glance backward. Judith strove now to put him and the memory of that day from her mind by turning toward the open country without a glance in the direction he had taken. But her thoughts were weary of journeying over that trail that she would not look toward. In imagination she had traveled it with Peter a hundred times, saw each dip and turn of the yellow road, each feature of the landscape, as he rode exultant to Kitty, to be turned, tried, taken or left, as her mood should prompt. But Judith was more woman than saint, and in her heart there was a blending of joy and pain, for she knew—such skill has love in inference from detail—that the mysterious faraway girl, who was so powerful that she could have whatever she wanted, even to Peter, loved her own ambitions better than she did Peter or Peter's happiness and that she would not marry him except as a makeshift. For Miss Colebrooke wrote verses. Peter had a white and gold volume of them that Judith fancied he said his prayers to.

As for Peter himself, he had never been able to explain the magic Kitty had brewed for him. There was a heady quality in the very ring of her name. His first glimpse of her on class day in a white gown and a hat that to his manly indiscrimination looked as guileless as a sheet of poppies nodding above the pale yellow hair that had the sheen of corn silk had been a vision that stirred in him heroic promptings. He had no difficulty in securing an introduction. She was a connection of the Wetmores, as was he, though through opposite sides of the house. In the few minutes' talk that followed he had the disconcerting sensation of being "talked down to." There was the indulgent tolerance of the woman of the world to the "nice boy" about this amazing young woman, who might have been eighteen. Hamilton had repudiated the very suggestion of being a "nice boy." But he felt himself blushing, groping for words, saying stupid things, supplying every requisite of the "nice boy" as if he were acting the part.

Later, when he ran the gamut of some friends, they had chaffed him on his hardihood. By Jove, he had nerve to look at her! Didn't he know she was "the" Miss Colebrooke? Now, Hamilton was absolutely ignorant of Miss Colebrooke's right of way to the definite article, but it was characteristic of him to make no inquiries. On the whole, he found the situation meeting with a greater number of the artistic requirements than such situations usually presented. He was still dallying with this pleasant vagueness of sensation when he picked up a copy of a magazine, and the name Katherine Colebrooke caught his eye and held it like the flight of a comet. Her contribution was a sonnet entitled "The Miracle." As a naive emotional confession "The Miracle" interested him. As a sonnet he read it unmercifully.

BLOODSHED SURE

Situation in Russia Has Reached the Point of Civil War.

TO ACT WITHOUT MERCY

Officers Instructed to Repress Disturbances on the Spot and to the Bitter End.

Government Sees No Way Out Except by the Employment of Armed Force.

Lodz, Oct. 28.—The governor has ordered the officers in the event of disturbances to act without mercy.

Moscow, Oct. 28.—In view of the alarming situation a special session of the duma has been convoked to sit night and day.

Reval, Russia, Oct. 28.—After pillaging the shops of the gunsmiths a crowd proceeded to plunder the factories. Troops were summoned and the shops closed.

Riga, Russia, Oct. 28.—The strikers here have plundered a gunshop and seized a number of rifles and revolvers and a quantity of ammunition.

Warsaw, Oct. 28.—The governor general has ordered the troops to shoot every agitator caught armed.

Poltava, Russia, Oct. 28.—Cossacks dispersed a meeting of many thousand persons, several of whom were wounded. The newspapers have ceased publication.

Saratoff, Russia, Oct. 28.—Shops in the center of the town are closed. The streetcars have ceased running. Troops are guarding the banks and the telegraph offices. Many industrial establishments have ceased operations.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—The last link in the railroad binding the capital with the outer world was broken late last night when the Finland road suspended service between St. Petersburg and the Finnish border. Telegraphic communication is still open, but there is a possibility that the cable operators may be compelled to join a general strike of telegraph operators today.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—That the present situation cannot end without bloodshed is the conviction prevailing in the higher government circles which from moment to moment are expecting a conflict between the troops and the revolutionists in St. Petersburg and news of trouble in the provinces, especially at Kharkoff, which has been declared in a state of war. The governor of Kieff has been instructed to take all necessary measures to restore order, which the local government and the commander of the troops are unable to maintain.

One of the most prominent members of the emperor's council received the Associated Press today and said with every evidence of deep emotion: "The situation is a grievous and a painful one, and I see no way out of it except by the employment of armed force. Please do not misunderstand me. I look upon the prospect with tears, but it is becoming more and more evident that the troops will be compelled to fire. I can see no other possible outcome. The revolutionists and terrorists are absolutely bent on forcing a conflict upon us, and nothing we can do will satisfy them. The extension of the suffrage and the right of assembly will be nothing to them. They are determined to have bloodshed, and we cannot avoid the issue. It is a frightful disease from which Russia is suffering and, sad and painful as it is, the government must act with force."

The minister said that the law creating a responsible cabinet will probably be promulgated and Count Witte's nomination as premier announced today. Under the statute the premier may or may not hold a special portfolio.

Fatal Accident to Woman.
Philadelphia, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Margaret Todd of New York was found along the tracks of the Philadelphia & Reading railway at Oxford street entrance to Fairmount park late last night. Both legs were severed from the body below the knees and her head was crushed. The woman was hurriedly conveyed to the German hospital, where she died a few minutes later. How the woman met with the accident is not known. She left New York yesterday to go to East Orange, N. J. When found she wore eight diamond rings, diamond earrings and a diamond brooch.

Norway Is Out of It.
Stockholm, Oct. 28.—At a meeting of the council of state King Oscar announced that he would in future use the following style and title: "We, Oscar, by the grace of God, King of Sweden and of Goths Wends." He further announced that his motto would be, "The Welfare of Sweden." Instead of "The Welfare of the Sister Nations."

MAJOR MENZIES TALKS

Prominent Democratic Leader Declines Socialistic Tendencies.

Indianapolis, Oct. 28.—Major G. V. Menzies of Mt. Vernon, one of the big Democratic politicians of Indiana, was here today on business. He is not in politics now, but he does not mind discussing the conditions. In view of the 95,000 majority run up by the Republicans last year he cannot see much of an immediate future for the Democracy. He is also greatly displeased with the efforts of such men as Hearst, Mayor Duffie of Chicago and others to make a national issue out of municipal and governmental ownership of public utilities. He regards it as a step toward socialism that will cause a greater gulf in the Democratic party than the issue of 16 to 1.

A report on the Indiana grain crops for this year has been completed by Joseph Stubbs, state statistician, showing the total value at present market prices to be $132,000,000, or $53 for every man, woman and child in the state. The corn crop will amount to approximately 170,000,000 bushels, the highest mark for ten years. The oats crop will reach about 70,000,000 bushels, and wheat about 30,000,000. The report was made up from figures obtained from township assessors. The average yield of wheat was 18.13 bushels an acre; corn, 42.29 an acre; oats, 34.37 an acre. Salt Creek township, Deatur county, had the banner wheat fields, producing an average of 49 bushels an acre. Benton county again has the high record for corn. Tippecanoe and Benton are about tied for average yield of oats.

"Cy" Neal, clerk of the insurance department of the auditor of state's office, made a statement of considerable interest today in view of the great scandal that is being unearthed in connection with the big life insurance companies at New York. It has been the general supposition that the investigation of the disclosures of graft had practically killed the business, but Neal says his reports will show that this has been one of the best years in the history of the insurance business in Indiana. The receipts to the state from the fire, accident, life and other insurance companies will reach the enormous total of nearly $400,000 for this year, which indicates that a phenomenal business has been done in the insurance line. Neal received a paper today containing a statement that the president of one of the big insurance companies who has been under fire during the investigation received a larger salary annually than the combined salaries of the governors of twenty-eight states, including New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

Secretary Downing of the state board of agriculture has not filed with Governor Hanly a detailed report of the receipts and expenditures for the recent state fair, and probably will not be able to do so for several months, as it is a tedious matter to complete. He says, however, that the fair this year netted a clean profit of between $13,000 and $14,000, which will be applied on payment of the agricultural board's debt. A large tract of land used for the fair ground was purchased two or three years ago, and it is only partially paid for, but with another good year the debt will be practically removed. Until it is removed it is not likely that the board will attempt to carry out any of the plans for extensive improvements that have been suggested.

Governor Hanly delivered a speech at Fowler last night and this afternoon went to Vincennes, where he will deliver an address tomorrow before the fourteenth annual conference of the state conference of charities and correction.

MORE BOLD BURGLARS

Watched by Citizens, Cracksmen Loot Hagerstown Bank.

Hagerstown, Ind., Oct. 28.—Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning the New National bank in this city was robbed by a party of masked men, thought to be twelve in number, who entered the room through a rear window and blew open the north vault, securing about $500. Although many people were aroused by the explosion, owing to no attempt was made to stop the men in their work. The robbers worked almost an hour at the vaults of the bank after the first explosion before they left the building and took to their rigs, which were hitched at the outskirts of town, and safely made their escape.

Costly Fire at Connersville.
Connersville, Ind., Oct. 28.—A fire which broke out in the engine room of the Central Manufacturing company's plant destroyed the entire building, a large amount of fine machinery, and a great deal of stock and finished work. The loss will be about $100,000, partly insured. The company was engaged in the manufacture of automobiles and buggy beds, and employed 150 men. Many of the employees lost their tools. Three large factories here depended largely on the Central Manufacturing company for buggy and carriage beds.

Two Organized Bodies.
Chicago, Oct. 28.—Both conventions of the Interstate Commerce Law League were adjourned sine die without making any efforts at reconciliation, and as a consequence there will be two regularly organized bodies working in the interests of railroad rate legislation.

Is Made to Governor Hanly's Letter by Richmond Men.

UNQUALIFIEDLY FALSE

They Declare Is the Governor's Charge That They Entered Into a "Shameful Conspiracy"

Friction Between Governor and Late Police Board at Richmond Reaches Bitter Stage.

Indianapolis, Oct. 28.—Governor Hanly mailed to S. E. Jones and Chas. Marlatt, former members of the metropolitan police board at Richmond, a letter apprising them formally that he has accepted their resignations and replying in a general way to a communication they sent by special messenger last Saturday, tendering their resignations and "roasting" his reform crusade.

He declined to discuss with them the sincerity of his motives, which they questioned in their letter, as he said he is not accountable to them for his official conduct. He declared that their letter made it plain that they did not state their real reason for tendering their resignations, and that they not only knew their actions had furnished ground for their removal, but that he was about to remove them.

"I heard from your own unwilling lips the story of the shameful and unsuccessful conspiracy entered into by you to destroy the official and personal reputation of the superintendent of the police department of your city," the governor continued, "through the influence of a lewd woman imported from outside the city and used by you for that purpose." The governor added that he deemed it his duty to not only enforce the laws, but to stand for "fair play" and a "square deal" for every man charged with the responsibility of enforcing the law. A "square deal," he continued, precludes the members of a police board from entering into a conspiracy to destroy the personal or official reputation of any subordinate.

"This you did," the governor added, "and when your conspiracy failed of consummation because the superintendent of the police department of your city failed to yield to temptation and stood the test, you were both angry and chagrined. The facts and the situation lead me to agree with you that the interests of the law-abiding citizens of the city of Richmond require the acceptance of your resignations."

The governor in conclusion said he would not discuss the efficiency or character of the police superintendent with them, since that is a matter in which they have had no official interests since the morning of the 23rd of this month.

A red-hot reply was received by the governor from Jones and Marlatt, in which they label as "unqualifiedly false" the governor's statements that unwilling statements of the alleged conspiracy to besmirch the police superintendent had been wrung from them. They also declare that the governor knew his statement that they entered into such a conspiracy as he sets out, was "unqualifiedly false" when he wrote it. They declined to discuss the matter of whether or not the police superintendent had stood the test as the governor stated, and in conclusion said they were prompted in their action by a sense of high duty to the people of Richmond.

DEADLY DUEL

Culmination of Years of Domestic Dis-cord.

Mt. Vernon, Ind., Oct. 28.—As the result of a shotgun duel at Oliver's station, eight miles from this city,

Ephraim Ramsey, farmer, was shot and instantly killed by Thomas Ridley, his nephew. Ramsey was fifty-four years old. Ridley is twenty-one years old. Ramsey returned home in an intoxicated condition and began quarrelling with Ridley, who left the house, carrying his shotgun. Ramsey armed himself with a similar weapon and started in pursuit. Ridley warned Ramsey not to follow him, but the latter persisted and raised his shotgun as if preparing to shoot. Ridley was the quickest to respond, the charge from his shotgun striking Ramsey in the head, killing him instantly. The shooting was not unexpected and is the culmination of years of domestic strife.

There is today a crying need of a reformation in the treatment of the body. The basis of this reformation is to be found in the thesis of Dr. R. V. Pierce: "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach."

In the forty odd years of Dr. Pierce's experience as chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo, N. Y., he has treated more than half a million people, with a record of ninety-eight cures in ninety-eight cases. The theory held by Dr. Pierce is that the stomach is the chief breeding place of disease, is abundantly borne out by the success of his treatment which is addressed primarily to the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition.

No other medicine acts so powerfully and as perfectly on the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Men and women afflicted with shortness of breath, heart disease, suffocation, dizziness, spots before the eyes, "liver pains," and similar ailments have been promptly and perfectly cured by the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

Miss Lavilla Bonine, Curator Natural History Society, of 408 Lawrence street, West Lansing, Mich., writes: "I suffered with chronic dyspepsia for nearly seven years, and this caused me to grow very thin and pale, at the same time my blood became poor and I was so nervous and unstrung that I was unfit to attend to my daily duties. Heart was also affected and fluttered at the least excitement. I spent a lot of money doctoring and found no relief, until I took Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It certainly is a wonderful medicine. It toned up my stomach and I began to have a splendid appetite; had no trouble with my digestion, and I began to pick up and get strong; soon new, rich blood flowed in my veins and I once more felt the beauty and joy of life. I have now enjoyed perfect health for a year, thanks to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

Republicans Stand for the Law

They Believe in Honest and Pure Elections.

Polite Answer to the Insincerity and Pretenses of the Democratic Bosses.

Seymour, Ind., Oct. 25, 1905.
To James A. Willey, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee of the City of Seymour, Indiana:

Whereas the democratic central committee and democratic candidates of said city to be voted for at the city election of November 7, 1905, believe that the agreements entered into by the democratic and republican committees and candidates in various cities of Indiana not to use money or other articles of value to influence an elector to vote for any candidate or ticket and not to pay any railroad fares to bring home voters to vote and not to hire buggies to haul voters to the polls or directly or indirectly to influence an elector to vote or refrain from voting and that no illegal means will be tolerated, is a wise, just and honorable movement and will result in the purification of the ballot and the independence of American manhood and honor;

Therefore, I, Victor N. Fetting, chairman of the democratic central committee of said city of Seymour, on behalf of said committee and the democratic candidates to be voted for at the city election in said city on November 7, 1905, hereby invite you, your committee and candidates to meet with us on next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, at Swails' law office, to sign agreements and to bind ourselves to carry out the purposes herein mentioned.

VICTOR N. FETTING,
Chairman Democratic City Com.

The reply of the chairman of the republican committee to the communication addressed to him is not only proper in itself, but a very appropriate rebuke to the democratic machine. The democratic organization, at its first meeting preparatory to the city campaign, passed resolutions of high sounding character, but directly opposed to its whole history and well-known policy. Its candidates are not pledged to this platform and distinctly refuse to be bound by it. This was a hollow pretense of the "smart set." The democratic chairman admits that they have communicated with their absent voters, and it is well known that some of their candidates have already made all arrangements within their power and resources to secure support at the election. When exhausted and ready to acknowledge defeat, this play to the gallery is conceived and submitted as pretense number two. It will deceive no one, and it was met as it well merited to be with a polite rebuke. The law ought to be a sufficient guide for the conduct of our democratic brethren, as it is for us. They virtually confess that they have been violating the law and degrading the manhood and honor of their neighbors and expect to do so again, unless they can get the republican committee to prevent it. We admit of no such conduct in the past, or purpose in the future. A republican legislature has enacted a law well designed to secure an honest election, a republican governor has attempted to secure a respect for law and appointed an honest prosecutor for this city and county, who, we are confident, will see that the law is fearlessly and fairly enforced. We commend our democratic brethren upon their good resolutions to respect and obey the law.

An earnest interest in municipal elections by voters of character and convictions is vitally necessary to good government. We believe that every man of this class and character should vote, and if absent from the city and within reasonable distance, should be induced to return and vote his convictions. If not able to lose both the time and expense necessary to return to vote, it is not against either the letter or spirit of the law that his party associates should contribute to such expense, if they choose to do so. Many others of like character and well-known views are remote from the polls, busily employed, crippled or physically weak from age or sickness, and it is wholly proper that they should be conveyed to the polls by the vehicles of their political friends. It is good for the community and it is good for the man that all such voters should exercise their right of suffrage at all elections, and we are unwilling to condemn this worthy practice as unlawful or dishonorable.

It is notoriously true that the democratic machine of this county and city have for years innumerable spent money lavishly to maintain a party supremacy. They have been able to do this with security. They have had such control that the penalties of the law had a meaning only to republicans.

Seymour, Ind., Oct. 25, 1905.
Mr. Victor N. Fetting, Chairman Democratic Central Committee:

Dear Sir—Your communication of the 21st inst. received by us this evening, and we are glad to say that every member of the republican committee heartily endorses your efforts to purify the ballot box. Our party has long been the exponent of a true ballot and is ready and willing to use every honorable means to bring about the desired results.

We are opposed to using illegal means to influence voters and have nominated as our candidates for the various offices men who believe in the principles of good government and who stand for nothing but a free and honest ballot. We have confidence in the honesty and integrity of our candidates and the patriotism of our people. The law of Indiana regulates the buying and selling of votes.

Formerly it might have been said that the law was defective, inasmuch as it inflicted a penalty upon the man who sold his vote and none upon the man who bought it, but this objection no longer exists, because the last legislature amended the law so that there is a penalty for buying as well as selling votes. We heartily commend the present election law of Indiana and will do all that is in our power to see that it is followed to the letter. We believe that a strict observance of the law by all political parties will result in the purification of the ballot and the independence of American manhood and honor. We know that our candidates believe in these principles, and to this end we assure you that we will assist you in every possible way.

We deem it unnecessary to appoint a committee to meet with you for the purpose of signing an agreement for the reason that the statutes of Indiana regulate the things that you seek to regulate by contract and every loyal and patriotic citizen is willing to be guided by the law of the land.

Hoping that this is a satisfactory answer to your communication and again assuring you of our earnest and sincere desire to have a free and honest ballot, we beg to remain,

Respectfully yours,
REPUBLICAN CITY COM.
By James A. Willey, Chairman.

It chances just now that they cannot control the prosecutor, who is an honest, impartial and fearless officer. Has this fact contributed to this show of reformation? We hope the reformation will be enduring and that they will continue to be good.

The democratic organ would like to make political capital of the newly assumed virtues of its bosses. We never admired a house-top confession of immoral and disreputable practices, or a megaphone announcement of a change of heart. That sort of repentance impresses us as hypocritical and contemptible.

If any republican has been violating the election law until he has an incurable habit in that direction and feels a fit now coming on, we advise him to lock arms with the democratic machine of this city and "brace up." We will give a reward for the photograph.

A Democrat's View.

To the Editor:
Without an issue to assail the present city administration, the democrats have undertaken to manufacture one to order, and are now laboring with much forced show of injured virtue, to fit it into the good people of Seymour. Whatever may have been done in the past by democratic or republican manipulation, toward improper influence over voters, constitutes no part of this campaign.

Through their chairman, Victor N. Fetting, the democrats have avowed their intention to abandon all efforts, proper or improper, to press an organized campaign against the republican candidates, thereby admitting the equality of the nominees, and the excellent administration of Mayor Graessle and his official associates.

The republicans, through their chairman, James A. Willey, have stated frankly, and without qualification, or reservation, their unflinching determination to stand by the election laws to the letter, which means that the election is to be cleaned of all dirty practice, leaving only the legitimate labors of a campaign of this kind to be attended to. What more can the most scrupulous moralist and reformer demand?

It is to be hoped that both parties will maintain a strict adherence to their political tenets, as suggested by their separate communications, in so far as they affect the real evils of a political campaign.

To a student of political economy, and an observer of the elective principle, the superficial quality of this new campaign fad is distinctly apparent. The practice of bartering in votes, and mandarin, disgraceful saloon scenes, are passing from American politics, and it is the duty of every man to aid in this reform. But the new theory that candidates of opposing parties must clasp one another in a fond embrace, and remain locked in each other's arms all through election day, is incompatible with American ways and American spirit. When such passive indifference characterizes American politics we may look for disintegration of prestige and power in every political and commercial phase of the commonwealth. Such indifference cannot establish a lasting foothold in American politics, nor American life.

Since the beginning of the elective principle, in all countries, and in all lands, among men of all conditions, and all races, where the system has sought to do with government, men have insisted on being active workers at elections. The history of England glows with the excitement of election day, and who can read it but to feel the manly blood of FREEDOM surging through his veins, and find an inspiration urging him on to political action. The enthusiasm of a foot ball player was never greater, and in many instances his actions no rougher, than those of the English scenes on the hustings.

These are our political inheritance; our birthright—our Freedom. Does it go without question that the republican organization and candidates of this city are corrupt, and have evil designs against the integrity of the polls, because they have refused to be swallowed up by the sickly spasm of seeming virtue, and commit itself to the impossible and undesirable task of changing unchangeable conditions? Because they do not "tuck tail," turn their backs and refuse to fight for their political rights, and what they believe to be the best interests of Seymour, are they to be branded as "bribers and corruptionists?" Such rot and foolishness are on a level with the whole dyspeptic plan, and is not worthy the consideration of honest men.

When the democrats of Seymour have reversed the political order of five or six centuries; turned elections into Methodist love feasts, and transmogrified opposing candidates for political office into societies of mutual admiration, it will be time for men to be caught by such "boomerangs" as the feeble scheme set up by the democratic organization of this city.

Turning from the principle involved, we may take a side view into the merits of this case. Both parties nominated their candidates in the first week of October. More than three weeks have passed. During that time, and with a view toward this action, what may have prevented the democrats from sending money to every available voter to pay his way home; and from arranging with private individuals for casual efforts toward conveying people to the polls on election day? This may all have been arranged, and the money paid over long before the proposition was laid before the republican committee. Indeed it is quite probable that this supposition is true.

It would seem that if there is anything feasible in this innovation, it should be worked out and fully arranged, long before either party has nominated its ticket. The agreement should be made and signed by the various organizations, and as many men in each party as possible, before the nominations are made, and later by the nominees themselves.

This would probably insure a reasonable degree of fairness; but at the best there is nothing in the whole scheme that appeals to the average American voter, and it cannot be a long-lived institution.

Coal By the Hod Full

We have got it, and we also have it by car loads, the largest variety of the very best coal obtainable in the United States.

What we buy in car loads we sell by the ton, and at as low prices as can be found in Southern Indiana. We are prepared to stock your bins for the winter with one or more of a dozen different first class grades, any kind you may choose. We have got the supply, and all we want is the demand for its home consumption.

We are better prepared to supply you with what you want than is any other coal dealer in Seymour. An investigation of the truth of this statement is earnestly solicited. If you want coal that is coal, and that will give you the best results and satisfaction, order Raymond City Soft Coal, which we are selling for only $3.75 per ton.

Had Leg Broken.

About 10 o'clock Friday night Oscar Auferheide, who has just begun braking on the B. & O., and was making his first trip west, jumped from a coal car at Cannelburg, breaking his leg about halfway between the knee and ankle. The train was going down grade at a pretty fast rate when the air brakes refused to work and Burns Railling, the engineer, and Auferheide were compelled to jump. The latter fell and struck his leg on a rail and besides breaking his leg bruised his body considerably. He was taken to Washington immediately and given medical aid. He was brought to his home here on No. 4 this morning and is getting along very well under the circumstances. He will be able to be out within six weeks. His many friends were sorry to hear of the accident.

DIED.

BALL.—Ismael I. Bowden Ball, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ball died Friday evening at six o'clock after an illness of eight days duration, at the age of two years, ten months and thirty days, having been born at Huron, Indiana, on November 29, 1902. The funeral services will take place at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the residence, 222 South Vine. Burial at Riverview.

DAVIS.—Mrs. Mary Davis, wife of Bert Davis, died at the family home in Jennings County near Cana church Friday evening at 7 o'clock, age 24 years. She was sick about four weeks having typhoid fever. She leaves a husband and two children. Mrs. Davis was the daughter of Albert Otto who lives in the New Driftwood neighborhood. Mr. and Mrs. Davis lived at Chestnut Ridge until a year ago when they moved to their own farm at Cana. Funeral Sunday about 12 o'clock from the Central Christian church conducted by Rev. Harley Jackson and Rev. Thos. Jones. Burial at Riverview.

Mrs. Ed Jennings went to Indianapolis this morning.

Mrs. A. H. Hoover's condition remains critical.

BETTER THAN SPANKING.

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child, the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

$25,000 DAMAGE SUIT

Big Four Sued by Victim of Purdue Wreck.

A N. Manden has filed suit in the Scott Circuit Court for Grover Seifres against the Big Four for $25,000 damages for personal injuries sustained in the wreck of the Purdue special two years ago.

Seifres was a Freshman at Purdue and was in the front coach in which so many were killed. He was hurled through a window and down an embankment. Both his wrists, his right ankle and his back it is alleged were permanently injured and he received such a nervous shock as to cause frequent heart failure. This is a suit that will attract much attention over the state.

The Purdue wreck in which so many football players and college students lost their lives is still fresh in memory. It is brought to mind today for the reason that Purdue and Indiana University football teams are playing at Indianapolis today.

Had Good Time.

Nathan C. Rucker, the teamster, returned the first of the week from a trip to Marshall, Ill., Terre Haute and other places and reports a pleasant time in company with friends. At Terre Haute he was the guest of William Boggs. Of his rounds at Terre Haute with Mr. Boggs, Mr. Rucker says:
"Left Seymour October 15 and reached Terre Haute at 4 p. m. That evening we saw the big Wabash bridge and at night took in an entertainment at the Grand opera house. Monday morning we went through the Wheel Works and visited the water plant. In the afternoon we visited the glass factory and some other industries of interest. In the evening we saw the Wild West show and other Carnival attractions. Wednesday we went through the jail and took a trip to Marshall Ill., and back. We visited the distillery and saw them making whiskey. Later we witnessed the sham battle on the river and saw the fire works. Next day we took a trip to Brazil and witnessed the making of vitrified brick. Bad weather kept us from getting around much that day. Friday we visited the rolling mill and the foundry. Saturday we went to Clinton and went down in a coal mine 240 feet. After our return to Terre Haute we visited other industrial establishments of special interest. The trip was very pleasant throughout."

Surveying Again.

The Irwin surveying party went to Azalia this morning and will try to complete the line on the east side of the river from there. The survey was almost completed but this morning it was decided to run another line from Azalia to this city—Columbus Republican.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Apgar, of Cincinnati, spent yesterday here with his father, Isaac Apgar, and went to Indianapolis last evening to visit her parents.

A RECEPTION.

An Afternoon of Pleasant and Profitable Entertainment.

The reception given by the National Biscuit Company at the Armory Hall this afternoon was a well attended and thoroughly enjoyable affair. From the opening hour at 2 o'clock, until the close, at 5, guests were almost continually arriving. Never before has there been an entertainment of this character in Seymour. The capacity of the hall was taxed, but not the hospitality of the reception committee. There was a hearty welcome for all.

The refreshments served at the reception consisted almost entirely of the products of the National Biscuit Company. First, there was Uneeda Biscuit, not only an appetizing between meals nibble, and an unexcelled lunch, but a complete ration in themselves. Then there were other delicious products of the baker's art, among them being Oysterettes, Butter Thin Biscuit, Graham Crackers, Social Tea Biscuit, Zu Zu Ginger Snaps and others. All these were served at the reception, as they always should be served, direct from their packages, which by excluding all air, dust and moisture, protect their contents from the oven to the table, in a most unique and effective way.

Nabisco Sugar Wafers and Festino Almonds were also served. These confections are two of the most delicious products of the National Biscuit Company. Nothing could be more desirable for a nibble, or more appropriate for dessert.

Saw The Headlight.

From evidence it seems that the adult members in the collision on the electric line last Sunday night were guilty of contributory negligence. It is stated that Jacob Hayob, the driver saw the headlight of the car and wanted to wait, but one of the women told him to drive ahead and they could get across the track ahead of the car. The horse could not be hurried up the hill with its load and was caught. For the deaths and injury of the children and wreck of the wagon and dead horse the company will be put to an expense of about $2,000. Settlement has been made in the James boy's death for $500.—Franklin Star.

Surprised.

Miss Sadie Meyers was given a pleasant surprise last evening when about twenty of her friends gathered at her home on South Chestnut street, the occasion being that of her twenty-first birthday. The party was given to music, games and refreshments and Miss Meyers took her position as hostess in a way to make the evening one of pleasure to all present.

A Judicial Inquiry.

A well known traveling man who visits the drug trade says he has often heard druggists inquire of customers who asked for a cough medicine whether it was wanted for a child or for an adult, and if for a child they almost invariably recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. The reason for this is that they know there is no danger from it and that it always cures. There is not the least danger in giving it, and for coughs, colds and croup is unsurpassed. For sale by C. W. Milhous.

The celebrated Madam "La Comp" will tell your past, present and future at the box supper tonight. A good social time. Come and bring your friends.

J. B. Shepard has rented the room now occupied by G. A. Berdon's barber shop and will open a restaurant there as soon as he gets possession. He will purchase new fixtures and equipment and will fit the place up in good shape and conduct an up-to-date restaurant.

How to Cure Corns and Bunions.

First, soak the corn or bunion in warm water to soften it; then pare it down as closely as possible without drawing blood and apply Chamberlain's Pain Balm twice daily, rubbing vigorously for five or ten minutes at each application. A corn plaster should be worn a few days to protect it from the shoe. As a general liniment for sprains, bruises, lameness and rheumatism, Pain Balm is unequalled.

Some Seasonable Advice

It may be a piece of superfluous advice to urge people at this season to lay in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost sure to be needed before winter is over, and much more prompt and satisfactory results are obtained when taken as soon as a cold is contracted and before it has become settled in the system, which can only be done by keeping the remedy at hand. This remedy is so widely known and so altogether good that no one should hesitate about buying it in preference to any other. It is for sale by C. W. Milhous.

THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Train Plunges Off Bridge in Kentucky, but No One Is Killed.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 28.—Passengers on the Louisville Southern train No. 9, due here at 7 o'clock, had a narrow escape last night when the train was hurled from a bridge seven miles from here into a creek forty feet below. Twelve persons were injured, but none was killed. Of the injured the condition of W. L. Herndon, mail clerk, Lancaster, Ky., and Joseph Thompson, express messenger and baggage master, is serious.

With one exception all of the passengers were slightly injured and badly shaken up. The tender, mail and baggage coaches and smoker were splintered and thrown into the creek, and the bridge destroyed entirely.

A more serious accident was probably avoided by the presence of mind of the engineer, A. Phillips, who escaped injury. The tender of the engine jumped the track about 100 yards from the bridge, and realizing that if the engine plunged the whole train would be dragged after it, he threw the throttle wide open and barely succeeded in getting the engine across the bridge when the sides of the bridge were battered down by the plunging cars. The mail was saved, but all the baggage was destroyed or damaged by water.

The bridge is 150 feet long and forty feet high and built of wood. A relief train was sent to the scene with physicians, and the injured were brought here for attention.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

contains all the digestive juices that are found in a healthy stomach, and in exactly those proportions necessary to enable the stomach and digestive organs to digest and assimilate all foods that may be eaten. Kodol is not only a perfect digestant, but it is a reconstructive, tissue building tonic as well. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Palpitation of the Heart and Constipation. You will like it.

Digests What You Eat

Rests the stomach, rebuilds the tissues and gives firm flesh.

Dollar bottle holds six times as much as the trial, or 50 cent size.

AN IMPORTANT CLUE

Boston's Suitcase Mystery May Now Be Solved.

Boston, Oct. 28.—The suitcase mystery of Sept. 21, when the dismembered torso of a woman was found in a suitcase floating in the harbor, was brought into prominence again last evening when a second suitcase was found in the Charles river. The case contained the arms and legs, said by medical experts to be those of a woman, and the police say there is no doubt that they are the missing members of the torso.

With the finding of the limbs there is now a chance that the victim of the tragedy may be identified, as one of the hands there were three rings. Two of the rings were on the ring finger of the right hand and the third was on the little finger of the same hand.

The pawnbroker who sold the case in which the torso was found has identified the case in which the legs and arms were found as one he sold the purchaser of the first case. Oil-cloth similar to that found about the torso was also found in the case recovered last evening.

Ambitious Pug Punished.

San Francisco, Oct. 28.—It took Jack O'Brien, a veteran of 200 fights, seventeen rounds last night to knock out Al Kaufmann, who fought his second battle as a professional. Kaufmann took a beating such as has seldom been received in the history of San Francisco fights. Kaufmann, a husky nineteen-year-old boy, who is credited with a punch, could not land it on the shifty man from Philadelphia. O'Brien's side-stepping, ducking and general footwork was a marvelous exhibition of skill. Kaufmann, with all his strength, could land only an occasional blow, that never hit a vital spot. O'Brien, cool and self-possessed, danced in and out, hitting the youngster almost at will.

HOW IT HAPPENED

Accident to President's Vessel Due to Confusion of Signals.

PILOT CHANGED MIND

After Signaling That He Would Pass Coming Vessel to Starboard He Changed His Course.

As a Consequence a Collision Occurred, Which Disrupted the President's Program.

Washington, Oct. 28.—According to a report received at the navy department the wireless telegraph station at Key West picked up the armored cruiser West Virginia at a distance of 225 miles as that vessel went down the coast en route for New Orleans, and was in communication with the West Virginia at a distance of 375 miles after she had passed. Naval officials are watching with considerable interest for the commander of the West Virginia to maintain communication with the mainland as she bears the president northward on his return from the South.

Regarding the accident which befell the lighthouse tender Magnolia, bearing the president from New Orleans to the cruiser West Virginia, and which compelled the president to abandon the Magnolia for another vessel, the United Fruit company, to which the vessel which was in collision with the Magnolia is chartered, has issued the following statement: "The Esparta sighted a vessel afterward found to be Magnolia. The Magnolia blew two whistles, signifying her intention of passing to starboard, which was answered by the Esparta, which latter vessel continued up the river and at the time of such signal was within 100 feet of the west bank of the river.

About two minutes after the Magnolia blew the first signal, she blew one whistle, signifying her intention of changing her course and crossing to the inside of the Esparta. The pilot of the Esparta, seeing danger in such action, blew whistles and also the danger signal of three whistles, signifying the danger of such a move on the part of the Magnolia, as the pilot of the Esparta was aware of the fact that there was not enough room between the vessel and the bank of the river for the Magnolia to pass, as he had taken his ship in as close as possible, so as to leave plenty of room in the middle of the river for the Magnolia, and had the Magnolia adhered to her original signal and intention of passing to starboard, would have passed clear, as the river was over half a mile wide at that point. Instead of this the Magnolia heaved to port and the two vessels collided. The Esparta struck the Magnolia on the port side, about twenty feet abaft the bows, and considerable damage was done the Magnolia."

The Man of the Hour.

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—President Roosevelt's forty-seventh birthday was celebrated in St. Paul by the "Original Roosevelt Club" last evening, through the medium of a banquet in the large dining room of the Ryan hotel, at which over 400 covers were laid for enthusiastic admirers of Theodore Roosevelt, who in the language of Governor Cummins of Iowa, was in more than one sense, "the man of the hour."

WITHOUT PRECEDENT

Is the Present State of Trade According to Bradstreet.

New York, Oct. 28.—Bradstreet's weekly review of trade today says: Activity, in fact buoyancy, still characterizes practically all lines of trade and industry. Cooler weather is a stimulus to retail trade in all but a few small and relatively unimportant sections of the country. Re-order business reflects this in a steady call from jobbers for drygoods, clothing, shoes, hats—in fact all lines of wearing apparel. Holiday trade in many lines also shows effects of early buying. The long awaited materializing of European demand for our broadstuffs is apparently now at hand. Business in this line, it is claimed, is now limited only by vessel room capacity. Higher prices for nearly all farm products have helped demand in agricultural districts, and to a certain extent improved collections. Industry retains the lively appearance noted for some time past. In railway lines the efforts making to handle the immediate business offering are such as were never put forth before. Taken as a whole, the situation is one which finds no precedents for this season of the year, and stress is being laid upon the need of conservatism if runaway markets are to be avoided.

Taft Enroute to Panama.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Secretary Taft and his party started on their Panama trip last night, leaving here by boat for Norfolk, where he will transfer to the United States cruiser Columbia at Old Point. Mr. Taft was overwhelmed with work up to the time of his departure. In the forenoon he went over the estimated expenditures of the canal commission since July 1. It is expected the purchase of the necessary plant to build the canal will be completed by January or June of next year.

Why this Stove Makes Warm Floors

The hottest part of the fire being always against the fire pot as illustrated above, the greater part of the heat is radiated downward, heating the floor much more than a baseburner does. Two or three tons of slack or soft coal will heat the ordinary house, giving as continuous and uniform heat as heretofore could only be obtained with a hard coal baseburner.

We also carry a full line of all kinds of heater prices lower than the lowest. We have a big stock and must sell them.

The Young Man and The World

BY SENATOR ALBERT J. BEVERIDGE.

PLAIN COMMON SENSE.

Few men have been held so highly by the young men of the country as is Senator Beveridge. Rarely has the career of any one been so encouraging to the young man who expects to "do something."

Why? Plowboy at 12; logger at 14; graduated from college, De Pauw, at 23; plainman, law clerk, lawyer; United States Senator at 36—that is what Senator Beveridge, poor and without a pull, has done by sheer pluck and hard work. And his steady conservative work in the senate has won him the equal regard of older men also.

No other man could be better equipped than Senator Beveridge to talk with young men about what they are going to do with their lives.

It is concentrated common sense. It does not preach, scold nor advise tiresomely. It reads like friends talking together.

It counsels cordially. It speaks encouragingly, as comrade to comrade. Full of incident, brilliant with illustration, it reads like a story. It is as forcible, vigorous and healthy as the man himself.

No young man of ambition can afford to be without it. It is practically helpful—it gets down to the A B C of living. Not a father nor a mother should fail to put it into the hands of their boys—it will inspire them and fascinate while it inspires. You will read it through if you begin it.

There are twelve chapters—every one of them loaded with that American wisdom called common sense. And the book is bright—not a dull page, not a dull paragraph, not a dull line.

It is written in the Indiana Senator's best style, and the man who cannot get new vigor in reading its crisp chapters is not a live American.

It is not only a brilliant book and a practical book—it is a big book, a big-hearted, big-brained book. It is the frankest kind of a talk between a United States Senator who has been through the mill himself and every young man who must go through the mill himself. It is a talk with the young man of the young man's country by its most prominent young man.

Agents Wanted—Splendid opportunity for agents on Senator Beveridge's great book! It should go into every family where there is a son. Send for outfit and terms. Special territory assigned. Price $1.50 Net. Postage Additional.
